The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

4,550

The St. Albans Messenger denies the statement imputed to Governor Proctor that there was a strong feeling for Hughes for president in Vermont. Is it worth while? It is no discredit to the governor if he did say it, and none if he didn't.

The Luteania is coming along a winner at a record clip, less than five days on the seas from Queestown to Sandy Hook. A few more like her, with the inevitable improvements in engines, should make a four-day trip out from New York a reality. The danger arising is that the Atlantic voyage will be made too short, too easy, too luxurious for real, old-fashioned enjoyment.—Springfield Republican.

The Burlington News insists on the right of every free man to hold office. He certainly has the right—if his fellow freemen will vote him into office. But there is no law to compel the voters to elect a new official in place of a tried, true and experienced one if they choose to keep the latter in office, and The Times believes when a particularly good official is in office he should be kept in. When he is not an efficient official, rotate him out.

PLENTY OF COAL.

Anthracite is coming out of the ground this year in such quantity as to lead Chief Rulley of the anthracite statistical bureau to speak of it as the greatest output in history. The year 1905 was a record breaker, with an aggregate of over 6,000,000 tons shipped. Last year, 1906, would have shown an even larger output but for the partial suspension of work pending decision concerning the awards of the strike commission. Up to Sept. 1 this year the shipment were 4,807,704 tons in excess of those of the corresponding eight months in 1905, so that Chief Rulley is able easily to demonstrate the faith he has in the current year's output. Old mother earth is doing her part in the anthracite fields, and it will be no fault of hers if prosperity this year fails to reach the consumers of hard coal.—Boston Herald.

JINGLES AND JESTS

Hash Jokes.

Editor—You live in a boarding house, don't you?
Paraphrase Serf—I do.
Editor—How is it we never get any tough spring chicken jokes from you?
Paraphrase Serf—They can't afford chicken where I board. I write hash jokes.—Chicago Record-Herald.

Returned.

Now the letter R appears;
Now the oyster gaily steers
Toward the scallop or the stew.
For the summer days are through.
No more freckles; no more tan;
No more leisurely young man.

No more strolling 'neath the moon
No more ice cream; no more spoon;
No more landlord smiling gay
At the bills you have to pay.

No more tunes in discords played;
No more boardwalk promenade;
No more sleeping rooms so small
That your elbows hit the wall.
Home again! Despite the heat,
A real town is hard to beat!

—Washington Star.

Authoritative.

"Do you think that horrid story about Beatrice is true?"
"It must be. I heard it from her dearest friend."—Life.

IN LOBSTER LAND.

In Lobster Land, where "angles" stand
Along its great white way,
I met a little chorus girl,
And she was blithe and gay.
She took my hand: "In this fair land
I'd rather work than play."
She was a well-timed chorus girl
Without the preface "Say!"

"I understand that you commend
The backing of a play;
I'm but a little chorus girl,
But yet I'm great, they say."
"What have you done, sweet chorus miss,
That I should star you?" Ray,
What awful murder or divorce
Will advertise you, pray?"

She dropped my hand. From Lobster Land
I saw her fade away.
She was an honest chorus girl,
And I an "angel" gray. —Judge.

HIS LAST WEEK.

The year had gloomily begun
For Willie Weeks, a poor man's Sun.

He was beset with bill and dun,
And he had very little Mon.

"This cash," he said, "won't pay dues,
I've nothing here but ones and Tues.
I've nothing here but ones and Tues."

A bright thought struck him, and he said,
"This rich Miss Goldrocks I will Wed."

But when he paid his court to her,
She lisped, but firmly said, "No, Thurs."

"Alas!" said he, "then I must die."
His soul went where they say souls Fri.

They found his gloves and coat
And hat,
And the corner then upon them Sat.

MANY AFFLICTED.

It is surprising what a lot of people limp about suffering from corns. Suffering from such a cause is really unnecessary. Corns can be removed in two or three days without the least pain, injury or inconvenience. We understand that C. H. Kendrick & Co., Druggists, have something that is a sure cure for corns. If you are afflicted, better see them at once.

MONTPELIER

A man registered at the Montpelier Louse for dinner Wednesday, requesting the clerk not to tell any one his name, and the clerk has faithfully observed his wish, probably because the name is written in Turkish. The man was a rug merchant, and as long as he registers in the language his identity will be unknown.

But little has been done on the removal of the crossings near Kenner bridge on the Montpelier & Wells River railroad. The surveying for the new road has been made and the work of building the road will be soon commenced. Many expressions of approval on the change of this highway have been heard by the members of the board for railroad commissioners since they gave notice of the change.

The strange part of the thing is that although some 50 ties were smashed to pieces and probably a hundred more cut somewhat, yet the train was not out of shape but, while the passenger train could run over it. The accident occurred shortly after 10 o'clock and there were 13 cars in the train. The one off the track was in the middle of the train. Engineer Michael J. McMahon was running the train.

The assistant judges of Caledonia county, G. T. Eastman of Walden and J. Frank Ruggles of Burke, were in the city today looking over the Washington county jail with the idea of building a jail in their county. They are making some measurements and getting other figures, so as to be able to make a report on the matter. The present jail in their county is too small and besides is out of date, so that a modern structure is imperative.

Traffic was blocked a couple of hours on the Barre branch of the Central Vermont railway Wednesday night. The night freight train between this city and Barre left the latter city about 10 o'clock and when a few rods this side of where the accident occurred at Dodge's bridge 10 days ago, a car in the middle of the train jumped the track and bumped along on the ties for nearly one half mile. For some distance the crew did not hear it but when near the Marvin underground pass, leading to Caledonia park the jarring of the car off the iron was felt and the train stopped. A part of the train was brought into this city. The engine with the repair going back to the scene where the car was placed on the track. A flagman stopped the passenger train which was held behind the train for over 30 minutes while the car was being placed on the track.

BOY'S FIRE MANIA IS TO IGNITE GASOLINE

Taunton Youth Admits Firing Stable of Mayor Tracy and Auto of Postal Inspector White, Using the Fluid.

Taunton, Mass., Sept. 12.—Punching a hole in the gasoline tank of an automobile and igniting the contents, and in another instance sprinkling gasoline on the floor, were the methods used by Leonard M. Cahoon, a 19-year-old youth, in setting two fires here recently, according to his confession in court, where he was held in bonds of $1,000.

The fires occurred in barns owned by Postoffice Inspector Joseph M. White and Mayor Tracy. The mayor's two small children, together with other relatives, had narrow escapes.

The boy's counsel, Frank P. Lincoln, told Judge Fox that the boy is not bright mentally.

The fires occurred within half a mile of each other. The entire neighborhood was aroused, and investigations led to the boy's arrest.

Inspector White's loss amounted to about $4,000, and other buildings, including his home, were threatened. The mayor's loss was about $500.
